Message from the President

Dear Friends,

I am pleased to report that 2013–2014 was another banner year for Mount St. Mary’s College! As we gear up for 2015 and our change to Mount Saint Mary’s University, we can be confident in the fact that we have a strong foundation on which to move forward.

Our enrollment growth remains strong as we welcomed nearly 3,300 new and returning students to our campuses this fall. At the same time, our endowment, as you can see from our financial statement in this report, is at a record level of $130 million. We had an excellent year in fundraising, with over $6 million going to programs such as scholarship support, enhancement of our beautiful campuses, and much more.

The Western Association of Schools and Colleges’ (WASC) Senior College and University Commission, when granting Mount St. Mary’s a full 10-year accreditation last year, commended the Mount for its financial viability, leadership and assessment activities, as well as applauding the extensive involvement of faculty, staff and trustees in reflecting a model of “inclusivity and commitment to community that exemplifies the mission.” But WASC was not the only organization to note the amazing things that are happening at the Mount.

Earlier this year, MONEY magazine released its Best Colleges survey, and Mount St. Mary’s was ranked number one in the nation on its list of “Colleges that Add the Most Value.” The Hollywood Reporter, one of the premier insider publications covering the film industry, named Mount St. Mary’s as one of “five schools to watch” for our “up-and-coming” BA and MFA film programs. Bright Hub, an online publication that focuses on technology, science and education, ranked the Mount among the nation’s top 10 best colleges for nursing.

The year ahead will be an exciting time at Mount St. Mary’s as we continue to make great progress with our strategic plan, Innovation for Excellence: Transforming Lives. We accomplished virtually all of our year one objectives. This year, we will start our 10-year campus plan, prepare for a comprehensive fundraising campaign, and launch our Center for Global Initiatives and the Center for the Advancement of Women. In the pages that follow, you will meet just a few of the donors who are helping us in our efforts to move forward, and most importantly, serve the needs of our students so they can face the future prepared and confident. I invite you to join them in making a difference.

With warmest regards,

Ann McElaney-Johnson
President
Mount St. Mary’s College

The College met 95 percent of the Strategic Plan’s year one objectives. These objectives advance us in our goal of fostering a vibrant culture of innovation and excellence. Here are some highlights of the progress made in the past academic year.

Center for Academic Innovation and Creativity
Under the leadership of Director Kim Middleton, the Center officially launched at the beginning of the 2014-2015 academic year. The Center’s task is to ensure that the Mount community has access to innovative teaching and learning tools that will foster student success and support faculty development. Through the Center, faculty can explore and share effective teaching strategies, and engage in the scholarly examination of emerging and best practices in teaching and learning.

Expanded academic offerings
To provide greater access to and respond to a need in higher education, the College expanded its online, Weekend College and graduate programs. The online associates degree program, now called Mount Saint Mary’s Online, began offering three majors: liberal arts, business, and pre-health science. Weekend College added day, evening and online classes. The graduate division launched two new degree programs: MFA in Film & Television, and MFA in Creative Writing.

Partnerships across the globe
The Mount’s partnerships worldwide will help expand student and faculty research, and prepare students for international careers. Currently, the Mount has partnerships with eight international universities. Seven are in China: Nanfang College, Gannan Normal University, Shanghai Zhuang Yuan Academy, Nanjing University and its subsidiary Jinling College, Guangzhou Polytechnic, Guangdong Women’s Polytechnic College, and the Shanghai Film Art Academy. We also have a partnership with Richmond, The American International University in London.

Health and wellness
Taking care of the body as well as the mind is important to the Mount. Different departments collaborated in launching a nutrition and food education program to promote healthy eating among students. As part of a broader Comprehensive Health and Wellness Plan, the College hired volleyball and soccer coaches to launch a club-level athletics program.

Name to reflect university status

The Board of Trustees voted unanimously to adopt the name Mount Saint Mary's University to more accurately reflect the range of offerings available at the Mount. The name change will take effect on January 2015. The vote came after months of research, forums and surveys involving alums, faculty, staff, students and others in the Mount community.

Partnership with City of Los Angeles

Thanks to Mount St. Mary's expertise in research related to women, the College has entered a partnership with the Los Angeles City Commission on the Status of Women.

The latter relationship has resulted in an opportunity to make a difference in the Mount's hometown. Throughout 2015, Mount St. Mary’s will provide Los Angeles Mayor Eric Garcetti and the City of Los Angeles with specific research on topics affecting women and girls in the city. The research highlights areas of gender inequity on issues involving leadership, public safety, veterans, education and economic development.

The Mount is conducting similar research in partnership with other California municipalities, including the City of Pasadena and Kern County.

Increasing visibility

As part of ongoing efforts to increase the College's visibility across the region, President Ann McElaney-Johnson participated in many high-profile speaking engagements. During 2013-2014, she spoke at 10 events. These included appearances at the Women in Public Service Project's China Institute at China Women's University in Beijing; the Milken Institute Global Conference in Los Angeles; a “Women Who Lead” public event at California State University, San Bernardino; and the American Council on Education Women’s Network in Washington, D.C.

Faculty and staff continue to share their expertise at various conferences and workshops across the nation. For example, Shelly Tochluk, education department chair, presented “Tools for Supporting the Creation of Inclusive School Communities” at the California Conference of the National Association for Multicultural Education. Diane Vines, dean of nursing, discussed prevention of violence and exploitation of trafficked women and children at the Association of Community Health Nurse Educators’ annual meeting. Rosalyn Kempf, director of Women's Leadership, co-presented “Empowering College Women Leaders: Research and Practices” at the National Student Affairs Administrators in Higher Education conference.
Legacies live on through scholarships

This President’s Report spotlights three women and the important people in their lives who inspire them to enrich others through education. Their stories illustrate how advancing students through generosity offers the promise of a bright future where women’s voices are heard on the national stage. Margaret Darmody ’58, Kathleen E. Davison ’69 and Karenlin Madoff share their personal stories of those whose legacies motivate them to give.

The Darmody Family Scholarship
Margaret Darmody ’58, the first in her family to go to college, worked in the Mount library typing catalogue cards to earn money to cover half her tuition more than five decades ago. She dreamed of completing her degree in French and traveling to New York City to work for the United Nations. Humble roots, big dreams, a drive to help others – all familiar themes that tie Darmody to the current Mount students she meets regularly as a donor. “It’s still basically the same women now who are going to Mount St. Mary’s as did 50 years ago. We needed assistance to get us through,” says Darmody, whose Darmody Family Scholarship honors her mother, aunt and cousin.

During her Mount days, Darmody lived at home in the Palisades and took the Sunset bus to campus. She shared those rides with other Mount students, some of whom remain close to her today. “I made lifelong friends at the College and for me those were some of the happiest years of my life – along that bus route with the other students when we were all 21 years old,” Darmody says.

“It’s wonderful to be able to help today’s students, and I feel completely at home when I go back to the College,” adds Darmody, a retired children’s librarian. “You’re among the women who are similar to you in many ways.”

Kathleen E. Davison Endowed Scholarship
Kathleen E. Davison ’69 was a shy student just out of high school when a generous uncle set her life on a new course. Her parents paid for her Mount tuition, but Davison’s uncle made it possible for her to live in a Chalon Campus dorm.

“The Mount helped me come out of my shell and it was wonderful,” says Davison, a retired schoolteacher and Heritage Society member. “With the smaller classes, the friendliness of the students and camaraderie of the teachers, it’s a lifelong connection.”

Living on campus helped Davison gain confidence and meet other young women who were driven and wanted to lead. During her 45th reunion this last October, she hosted a gathering at her home for her classmates, which included one of the student body presidents from her time at the Mount. She has maintained especially close personal ties to many Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet, who have inspired her since her high school days when she first went to the Mount for a college day.

When her uncle, a real estate developer with no children of his own, passed away nine years ago, he left Davison an inheritance. She is using part of that money, as well as an inheritance from her mother, to build the Kathleen E. Davison Endowed Scholarship. “I’m glad the scholarship is going to go on and on. I look forward to meeting some of the people that I help,” she says.

Michelle Madoff-Scheske Scholarship

Michelle Madoff-Scheske was a Canadian-born child of the Great Depression whose parents divorced when she was a little girl. Foster homes followed, but eventually, Madoff-Scheske moved to the U.S. and became one of the most powerful anti-pollution voices in America in the 1960s and ’70s. Madoff-Scheske, who stood 5 feet 3 inches tall and wielded her knack for public speaking to defeat male opponents for multiple terms on the Pittsburgh, Penn., city council, is being honored through an MSMC scholarship established by her daughter, Karenlin Madoff.

“My mother is the epitome of what the American success story is. She came into this country and was smart, charming, and became a public figure,” Madoff says. “She wanted to make the air healthy for herself and for others.”

Madoff remembers stuffing envelopes for letter writing campaigns organized by her environmentalist-volunteer mother at the age of 12. Education for women, Madoff says, was a key focus for her mother, beyond founding the Group Against Smog and Pollution. Her mother developed asthma after marrying Madoff’s father, a doctor, and moving to Pittsburgh.

Madoff-Scheske was keenly aware of expectations for American women in the 1950s and ’60s. “My mother would never have been given the opportunity to pursue advanced science or math in her own education,” Madoff says. “I wanted to contribute in her name to make it possible for women to really be able to take that next step in those fields.”

Far-reaching financial support

Three foundation grants received in 2013–2014 boost scholarships for nursing, veteran and STEM students

California Wellness Foundation

The California Wellness Foundation awarded a $75,000 grant for nursing scholarships as part of the Foundation’s Diversity in the Health Professions initiative. The grant went toward financial aid for at least 21 nursing students during the 2013-2014 academic year.

The Ahmanson Foundation

The Ahmanson Veteran Scholarship Initiative provided $50,000 in the 2013-2014 academic year for Mount students who served or are serving in the U.S. military. The grant also funded career counseling tailored specifically to the students’ military service backgrounds.

Southern California Edison International

A $50,000 grant from the Edison International Expendable Scholarship for Minority Women in STEM Education helped cover tuition expenses for several Mount students in the past academic year.
Global research on gender

Oak Foundation supports research on how gender portrayals affect behavior and beliefs on an international scale

Thanks to the Oak Foundation, the Geena Davis Institute on Gender in Media at Mount St. Mary’s College is conducting original research to examine the global film industry’s impact on women and girls.

The Oak Foundation provided more than $850,000 for the project, which will illustrate how gender portrayals affect the behavior and beliefs of women and men in five disparate countries: Brazil, France, India, Nigeria and the United Kingdom. Since its founding in 1983, the Oak Foundation has given more than 3,000 grants to nonprofit organizations around the world, addressing issues of global, social and environmental concern.

The research project came out of the alliance formed in 2013 between Mount St. Mary’s and the Geena Davis Institute on Gender in Media. The collaboration has provided the Institute with a fiscal sponsor and a new home within Mount St. Mary’s College, and has enabled creation of new educational and advocacy programs at the Mount.

This fall, the Institute hosted three global symposiums convening leading CEOs and decision-makers in the entertainment industry, corporations and nonprofits interested in the empowerment of women and girls through film.
Strong foundations

Longtime Mount supporters provide funding for two major renovation projects

J. Thomas McCarthy Library and Student Quad, Doheny Campus

The J. Thomas McCarthy Library and student quad on the Doheny Campus received a facelift this summer, thanks to generous grants from the Thomas and Dorothy Leavey Foundation and the Rose Hills Foundation. The renovation project added a library entrance to the eastern side of the building. The new space adjacent to the library, The Rose Hills Plaza, provides a new venue for multipurpose programming and outdoor activities.

Campus Center Plaza, Chalon Campus

The Chalon Campus Center Plaza project received substantial support from The Ahmanson Foundation and the William Hannon Foundation for the renovation of the space that leads to the Humanities building. The Plaza is now a gathering space and cultural hub for students and it provides a grand entrance to the campus from the parking structure.

Honor Roll of Donors 2013–2014

The inspirational giving of those listed in this Honor Roll of Donors supports the foundation upon which the College was established and paves the way for an even greater future. This publication recognizes the gifts of alumnae, parents, friends, faculty, staff, students, corporations, foundations and organizations. They are partners in the Mount’s goal to provide essential scholarships, programs and facilities for its students.

This Honor Roll includes actual gifts and pledge payments, made from July 1, 2013, through June 30, 2014.

Heritage Society

In 1992, Mount St. Mary’s College established the Heritage Society to honor and thank alumni and friends who have provided for the College in their wills, trusts, life insurance, retirement plans or other instruments. If you have made a provision for a deferred gift to Mount St. Mary’s College, please contact Cindy Hizami, director of planned giving and outreach, at 213.477.2740, so that we can count you among the members of the Heritage Society.
